

Margaret B. O'Daniel

September 27, 1955 - October 24, 2020

Margaret B. O'Daniel passed away on the 24th of October, 2020, in Broken Arrow, Oklahoma. She was born in Lawton on September 27th, 1955. She is preceded in death by her husband, Tracy O'Daniel, and her middle child, Nathan O'Daniel. She is survived by two of her children, Rachel Ciancio and Bob Wagner-O'Daniel, her grandchildren, Kivrin Ciancio and Keely Ciancio, as well as her siblings, Gerald Mobley, Chris Baker, and Liz McCartney.

Margaret graduated from Southeastern University in Durant, OK, and went on to work as a high school special education teacher for many decades. Though she taught many subjects, her favorite subject to teach was history. She was beloved by her students and her fellow faculty alike. She always had a kind word or a helping hand for those who needed her.

She was an active and upstanding member of the community, volunteering many hours of her life to the Boy Scouts of America. She was also active in a local bowling league. Intelligent, caring, devoted to family, and quirky, she brought love and light to all that she did.

Margaret loved going to the movies and had an extensive movie collection. Her favorites were almost always corny, old comedies. She loved music, especially anything from the sixties or seventies. She valued reading and learning, and transferred that love to those she raised and taught. She gave her love of books and video games to her children and grandchildren. She could always be found watching a movie, reading a book, or playing video games. She was a bellionaire in Animal Crossing, her latest gaming obsession.

She was loved immensely and will be missed by all those who knew her.

"The journey doesn't end here. Death is just another path, one that we all must take." -
J.R.R. Tolkien

“ Margaret was a caring, kind, and compassionate person. She cared so deeply for her family as well as anyone that was lucky to know her. I have worked with her for years, but she was not just a co-worker, she was a friend. My heart is heavy, but I take comfort in the fact that she has been reunited with her husband, Tracy and her son, Nathan. Margaret will be truly missed.

“ Margaret was a great neighbor. We were working across from each other since last year. She was a great help to anyone and I can only imagine how missed she will be. Personally she was there as a great leader and mentor to many of us. She did things quietly and without fanfare. But she was there for her kids.

“ Words can't express my sorrow for the family of Margaret, as she was one of a kind. She will be so missed here at BAHS by her students, staff and parents. We all find solace in the fact that she is again with Tracy and Nathan. She is well, whole and happy. Praying for all of her family who miss her so terribly, for peace and guidance through the days to come.
